Level 3

On Saturday, a French man killed two people and wounded five others at a shopping mall in the southeast of France.

The man attacked passersby with a knife, and he was arrested near the scene of the crime. When the police were arresting him, he was praying in Arabic.

French authorities did not name the suspect; however, he identified himself as a Sudanese man who was born in 1987. Police say that they searched his home, and they found documents criticizing France as a country of unbelievers.

French authorities believe that the suspect probably acted alone, and he was not working with any terrorist organizations.

Difficult words: passerby (a person who is walking past someone or something), pray (to speak to God), unbeliever (a person with no religious beliefs).
